

Swallows and nests

An African woman holding a little child in her arms is crying in the street where you are walking. What do you do?

- You approach her and ask if she needs help.
- You become suspicious and walk away.
- You call the police.

Swallows and nests

You meet your cousin Pamela and her boyfriend. They tell you that he arrived in Italy on a boat.

- You are curious to know his story.
- You think your cousin should get to know her boyfriend better before introducing him to the family.
- You feel uncomfortable because you do not know what to talk about with him.

Swallows and nests

A new pupil, daughter of refugees, has arrived in class. She can not speak your language and feels very uncomfortable.

- You ignore her.
- You hope that the teachers will not ask her to sit next to you.
- You involve your classmates in ice-breaking activities to relax your new classmate.

Swallows and nests

You invite a Muslim friend for lunch. Your mother, not knowing this, has prepared a pork dish. What do you do?

- You ask her to replace it with a food that your friend can also eat.
- You do not worry about it

Swallows and nests

You are invited to a party by foreign friends.

- You do not eat anything because you do not like foods that are different from what you usually eat.
- The food is very different from what you usually eat, but you are curious to taste it.

Swallows and nests

You go into a bar to get a coffee and behind the counter you see a girl wearing a burqua. What do you think?

- She must be the owner.
- She must be an employee.
- You order a coffee.

Swallows and nests

The lady who cleans your house once a week is from Syria. You know that she has a degree in medicine.

- You wonder why she does such a different job.
- You think it is normal that a refugee has a more modest job in Europe than in her/his country.
- You think that every job is dignified if well done.

Swallows and nests

You have to make a quick purchase in a shop. You park next to a slide for wheelchairs. You think: "My car will only stay here for 5 minutes. Is this an appropriate behavior?"

- Yes
- No
